The aim of this event is to bring together academic scientists, experienced and young researchers, as well as practitioners to exchange and share their knowledge and research results on various aspects of social and political sciences, presenting and discussing the most recent innovations, trends, and challenges in these fields. For the 2024 edition, the Conference Committee welcomes proposals from all areas of social and political science. Abstracts must highlight the paper's relevance for the evolution of contemporary civil societies.

ACADEMOS has teamed up with Civil Szemle and Perspective Politice journals, and all submitted papers will have the opportunity to be considered for special issues of these journals. The paper selection will imply a blind peer review process and the final decision for assigning specific papers to each journal will be made - based on the peer review reports - by the Conference Committee and the Journals Editors-in-Chiefs jointly.

Thematic areas for tracks and papers include but are not limited to:

- Changing participation paradigm
- Are citizens interested in votes?
- Techniques of resistance against authoritarianism
- Civil society and its role in shaping solutions to the current economic challenges
- Contemporary issues in International Relations
- Reshaping political ideologies
- The social values behind contemporary ideological conflicts
- Law, public policy, and civil society
- Civil society in the endeavour of protecting the environment
